

The Water Song

Ward Ricker

Ward Ricker

♩ = 100      F                      C                      F

Oh, on this earth there's not a lot of water and you know we're using more
The aquifers they get lower and get lower, and the rivers are running
We keep our lawns so green that they do shine, and we flush our toilets with three Oh, what will happen when the aquifers run dry, when the rivers no longer

4      Bb                      C                      F                      C                      F

than wereally oughta and the climate they say is getting hotter and hotter, so let's join in and sing the slower and much slower, and the lakes are shrinking way back from their shores, gallons at a time, and our swimming pools, they sparkle, oh, so fine, reach to you and I? When the farmers have no more water to apply?

8      C7      F      Bb                      C                      Dm                      Bb                      C      F

water song: Oh water, oh water, it's important stuff to have. If we don't use it wisely we'll wish that we had. Oh

13      Bb                      C                      Dm                      Bb                      F      Bb      C

water, oh water, it's important stuff we need, and if we use it all up we'll be in shit so bad.
